

In the interest of maintaining the Constitutional rights of the American Public to freedom of the press and free speech, I am opposed to changing current broadcasting ownership regulations. Further consolidation of media ownership in the hands of the few will deny the public the opportunity to access news that is uncontrolled by special interests. Many say the public has so much to choose from in media selection. However, when that media is controlled by narrowing ownership..choice does not equal truth, but rather, managed media reflective of dictatorships, not a republic/democracy. The "Age of Overchoice" already means less access to truth. I urge you not to change existing regulations.
